WASHINGTON CITY

Congressional

WASHINGTON March 25 —Senate —Trumbull said he wished to bring the Senate to a direct vote on salt In the course of further remarks he said the reduction would be five times as much per head by repealing the duty on woolen goods as by making tea and coffee free. Morton believed we could make tea and coffee free make a proposed reduction of ten per cent. on articles enumerated in the second section of the Senate tariff bill and repeal all internal revenue taxes except on spirits fermented liquors and tobacco and still pay over fifty millions of the public debt each year Therefore he gave notice that he would offer an amendment leaving tea and coffee free and repealing all laws imposing taxes by stamps except on spirits, fermented liquors and cigars and all laws approving taxes on gas and expected to take effect October 13, 1872

Scott said if Morton's amendment prevailed he (Scott) would think it time to consider the House bill further and would yield the whole subject again to the Chairman of the Committee on Finance

Sherman s suggestion was then taken on Trumbull's amendment to include salt. Rejected by yeas 17, nays 25.

Morton offered as an amendment to the pending House bill the whole of the tariff bill reported from the Senate Finance Committee, except the provisions relating to tea and coffee Rejected Yeas, 22 nays

Morrill offered the free list in the Senate as a substitute for Morton s amendment

Sumner said he would vote for Morton s amendment though he regarded it as incomplete because it would leave undisturbed the tribe of internal revenue officers now burdening the country

Morton said the Secretary of the Treasury had power to discharge unnecessary revenue officers, and it must be left to him or some executive officer to judge how many could be spared

Morrill s substitute for Morton s amendment was adopted by 30 to 13

Wright then moved to consider the second section of the Finance Committee's bill reducing duties of 10 per cent on woolen fabrics and manufactures of iron, steel earthenware, glassware, leather and India rubber Agreed to—ayes 32 nays 27

The Presidency

HENRY WARD BEECHER'S OPINIONS OF GRANT

From the Christian Union

All free government must be carried on by parties It is not possible to base their action on high grounds of philosophy and of morality But it is a mistake to suppose that a political party exists for the purpose of indoctrinating the community either in politics or in morality It is a machine for carrying into practical effect the mind and will of the majority of the people It is to all intents and purposes a part of the administration, and the conditions of its own existence and efficiency limit its power It should not transcend morality but it may not be able to raise to the level of the highest morality It is impossible for a great party to go beyond the average intelligence and morality of the people

While we recognize the need of stirring up the administration on many points, and the right of men to criticise freely its shortcomings, and the desirableness of inciting a political party to enlarge and elevate its policy, it should yet be done in a friendly spirit, and not destructively The party is not to be reduced disintegrated, destroyed unless it wholly fails to answer the great ends for which it exists Men who in favor of moral ideas, show that they do not care for the party in which they are, may be useful as reformers, and desirable in chairs of philosophy or in the pulpit but they cannot be deemed safe managers in practical affairs. When a ship is at sea, in storms even if her engine is poor she cannot suffer it to be taken out in favor of a better one, or even extensively repaired, until port is reached.

When an army, after a hard campaign, has united its forces and camped down in a fat and fruitful land it is apt to become indolent through security, and to lose its discipline through luxury It is better for an army not to be too victorious and for the soldiers not to be too well kept

The Republican party has passed through a struggle as severe as ever befell any political party It arose at the crisis of that deadly strife between slavery and freedom which happily has given complete ascendency in our government to those sentiments and principles of liberty from which our government had its origin It has conducted the country through that great civil war, and through the momentous policies which the readjustment of affairs required For twelve years it has grappled with the most imperious difficulties, and for much of the time it has fought for life against able antagonists But, partly by its own wisdom and partly by the supreme folly of its enemies it has gained a complete ascendency Outside of itself, the Republican party has no enemy that it need to take a second thought about

But now it is passing through an ordeal more severe and dangerous than any it has ever experienced All external opposition hitherto tended to consolidate its strength Now, having no fear from without its managing members are contending among themselves A strong fort may be taken by a weak army if the garrison are drunken or are quarreling

But fortunately thus far the unseemly contentions have been limited to the official members of the party and have not spread among the rank and file One would think, who reads the reports from Washington, that the Republican party was hopelessly divided, but the party does not live in Washington, and the representatives of the party by no means reflect the spirit of the citizens at home The fact is that there are about seventy excellent gentlemen in Washington and elsewhere who wish to be President, and as but one can rule at a time it is a serious question who the unfortunate wretch shall be Several of us here at home are confidently looking for the same position, Oh, to be President of the United States! Alas for the sixty nine at Washington and the uncounted expectants at home! The party is like a Northern Sugar camp, hundreds of trees are tapped and running and the caldron is bubbling and boiling But when the nominating convention shall have boiled down the floods of sap all the trees will find their contributions sugared off to one cake, and then, after some hesitation, they will all put out their leaves again and go on growing as if nothing had happened But besides the call which every man has to be the next President there is a vast deal of disturbance created by the question who shall own the President who shall manage the party, who shall apportion the affairs and influence?

There are two parties in Washington within the Republican—those who assume to guard and defend the President and those who do not There are able men on both sides, but neither side has shown thus far any great sagacity in general management

It is objected to General Grant that he has no power to control his party But, who, among all the eloquent Senators has shown any such power? They are mighty to divide but powerless to conciliate or consolidate No man is a leader of men who has not the power to conciliate or to compel unity! Has there appeared among all the so called chiefs of the Republican party any man who thinks so broadly and has such gifts of leadership as win and hold men together without any sense of servile submission? We have good men. But those who can conciliate are not strong Those who are strong of thought and scholarship and political knowledge have not the slightest talent for uniting men They not know how to knead Who among all the politicians and statesmen has shown himself a good leader? An able speech is not able generalship Good oratory is not good management General Grant may not be a good political leader as compared with an ideal leader but as compared with those around him he is the best of the whole

Consider the management of this French arms case Just pending the selection of the next Presidential candidate and on the eve of the march of the Republican army into the campaign a resolution is introduced asking for an examination of the conduct of our nation in disposing of arms which went mainly to the French in their conflict with Germany Why was such a resolution called for just now? Had the French Government felt aggrieved? Had Germany protested? Was this Government in danger of being embroiled with either even in a war of words? No It was in the cause of general morality and of patriotism that the subject was introduced just at a time when a sagacious leader would have sought unity not livid ... among his compeers But to make an injudicious step as mischievous as possible it was resolved ... was affixed of the most aggravating character Nothing could have been more injudicious unless it be the conduct of those who opposed investigation The Administration was put in a false position by those who defended it untimely as the demand was and insulting as was its method it should have been met promptly and eagerly and every door and archive thrown open to the fullest investigation Thus for weeks the Senate chamber was turned into a rhetorical club-room where men showed their glittering skill of speech uselessly and thoughtlessly Meanwhile these very disagreements among men quarreling for ... supremacy are quoted ... unfriendly presses as evidences that the party needs a new leader Would ... the Senate of ambition ... another man in Grant's place and would not the same struggles go on Where is the man that gives assurance of skillful leadership? Would the names of those who have been prominently mentioned with respect for their honorable service in the ranks but with a ... at the thought of their ... Well there is this good in all that has happened that when men have talked out their feeling they are apt to feel better The old nurse used to give children saffron tea for the measles and rejoiced when they saw the skin red with the efflorescence Our Washington great men have a shocking complexion but it is because their temper has come out to the surface We hope it may not be allowed to strike in again

GREAT RAILROAD ENTERPRISES

TWO MORE GREAT THROUGH LINES FROM NEW YORK TO THE WEST

From the Chicago Evening Mail

Through lines from New York to Chicago under one management are the great desiderata of railroad managers in this country Three routes practically meeting this requirement are now in operation but yet greater things are determined on Two great highways having each but one name for the entire distance, running on lines much shorter than any now in operation and having double or treble steel rail tracks, are next to be built, besides which are at least two other proposed lines which are perhaps farther in the future The two which now give the most promise are called respectively the Continental railway and the National railway

The grand line known as the Continental is to run from New York with a double-track to Chicago, and from Omaha Junction, near this city to Council Bluffs with a single track The route is by way of Tiffin and Akron, Ohio and a considerable portion of the contracts have already been let It is thought that cars will run into Chicago by July 1873, and from New York to Council Bluffs by January, 1874 The distance to Chicago will be but 780 miles, a saving of 128 miles, and the time but 20 hours The distance to Council Bluffs will show a saving of 225 miles The company have charters in each State some of them being acquired by the purchase of existing railroads. Local aids have been subscribed in various States to a large amount and the people along the line seem to be taking hold of the work in earnest. The Continental railway is undoubtedly a fixed fact

But a still greater scheme is that of the National railway for which a charter is being sought from Congress The proposed line is to be only some 750 miles in length from New York to Chicago, and it is to have three steel tracks, and to make the distance in eighteen hours, and to carry passengers at a rate not to exceed three cents per mile The capital is to be $100,000,000, and it is believed by many heavy capitalists who propose to invest in it that it will pay a handsome interest on the investment Two of the tracks will be devoted to the carrying of freight, and rates will be considerably reduced over those now charged There is pressing need of better freighting facilities between the lake and the seaboard, and their feature will especially commend the road

The originators ask a national charter in order to avoid the discrepancies and annoyances often caused by attempts to conform to the laws of different States, although they will also obtain charters from each State, and of course act in conformity to them We see no valid reason to object to a national charter for the enterprise, and we hope that within five years the cars will be running on this great treble-track, short-line route

The German Empire

THE VARIOUS STATES OF WHICH IT IS COMPOSED—NATIONALITIES, POPULATION, RELIGION, ETC, ETC

The present confederation of Germany includes twenty five distinct and independent States, one of which (Prussia), however, is formed by the amalgamation of several lately distinct nationalities, viz Prussia proper, the ex-Kingdom of Hanover the ex Duchy of Holstein the ex Electorate of Hesse, the ex-Duchy of Nassau, and the former free city of Frankfort—all spoils of the wars of '64 and '66 The following is a list of the various States constituting the Empire, with their population and the number of votes of each in the Bundesrath and Reichstag, two bodies which are somewhat analogous to our Senate and House of Representatives

The feat of "Herr Holtum, the Prussian Hercules, who is astonishing the British by catching a ball fired from a cannon, is said to be neither novel nor difficult. The fact is that about two ounces of powder are placed in the gun, then the ball is rammed home then the balance of the charge is put in When the gun is fired all the powder is ignited, and the flash, smoke and report are orthodox but the ball receives propulsion only from the small quantity of powder behind it, and is thrown but a very few feet So accurately could the force be estimated that at an experiment in England in 1846, a 12 pound ball was thrown against a board fence so as to leave a slight dent on it without knocking it down

An Act of Favoritism.

We cannot expect the Herald, in the extremity in which it finds its party, to be ingenuous or accurate in its statements. But it may properly be reminded that its party now is, and has for some years been, in difficulties from which no amount of quibbling or tergiversation can extricate it. Its organs may therefore as well leave off these habits and tricks of misstatement and misrepresentation. What, for instance, can it advantage the Democratic party for its organ to say that the Republican platform has a resolution which opposes the construction of the Canal and Locks at the falls of the Wallamet? For the statement is not true: it is not within telescopic distance of truth. The resolution in the Republican platform does not denounce the enterprise as an act of favoritism, as the Herald asserts. But it does denounce it as an act of favoritism the preference of seventy-five thousand dollars in the construction of the work, which sum was given as a bonus to a corporation "consisting mainly of Democratic leaders and party favorites." The exact language is, "We condemn the act of favoritism by the last Legislature whereby two hundred thousand dollars, taken from the school fund, were granted to a corporation consisting mainly of Democratic leaders and party favorites, for the construction of a work which another corporation, entirely sound and responsible, offered to construct for seventy-five thousand dollars less." Here is the act of favoritism that was condemned.

Nobody now opposes and nobody has ever opposed the construction of the Canal and Locks. All admit and have ever admitted that the enterprise is a very useful and important one. But there are many people of both parties who think also that a fund for the support of free schools is as important and useful as any commercial enterprise whatever. These people opposed the taking of two hundred thousand dollars, or any other sum, out of the school fund, for the Locks or for any other purpose. They were anxious to have the Locks built, but did not wish to have it done at the expense of the school fund. But a determination was evinced to lay violent hands on the fund, and it next became a question how much of it could be saved. A company "entirely sound and responsible" offered to do the work for a subsidy of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. But another company, "consisting mainly of leading Democratic politicians," at whose head stood Senator Kelly and Gen. Miller, demanded that the work should be let to them for two hundred thousand dollars. The Legislature complied. Here was the "act of favoritism." It was favoritism to the extent of seventy-five thousand dollars, which not a few people think a sum of money worth saving. Other conditions favorable to the State were also offered by the first company, and refused.

The Republicans in their Convention took no new position on this question. They simply reasserted the position they have held ever since the subsidy was granted.

Promotion of Education.

While Rev. Dr. Atkinson of this city was at the East last winter he prepared and presented to the Bureau of Education at Washington some interesting statements and suggestions concerning the educational cause. These have appeared in a pamphlet, accompanied by letters from the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of Education. The title of the pamphlet, "Suggestions for a Free School Policy for United States Land Grantees," furnishes some idea of its contents. But the idea is given with more clearness in the pamphlet itself, and is briefly this:

Great moral, educational and pecuniary advantages have resulted to those towns and cities in the West which early in their organization donated eligible sites within their limits for schools for free education. Our city of Portland is mentioned as a prominent example. It is proposed that the attention of proprietors of the great railroad grants shall be called to this subject, and that they be requested to set apart in the town-sites which they may lay out a sufficient number of blocks and lots for the occupation of school-houses for common schools. The Commissioner of Education in his letter warmly commends the plan, and sets forth its advantages to the country and to the railroads. Jay Cooke has responded on behalf of the Northern Pacific Railroad that the plan meets with the approval of that Company, and will be carried out. Other railroad companies doubtless will do likewise. It will enhance the value of the railroad and town-sites, and will bring great, permanent and ever-increasing results to the educational and moral development and well being of the country.

A Contrast.

From January 1, 1869, to September 4, 1871, a period of two years and eight months, the city and county debt of New York, under Democratic administration, had increased $62,339,596, nearly the whole of which was stolen by Democratic officials.

From March 1, 1869, to March 1, 1872, a period of three years, the National debt was diminished by Grant's administration to the extent of $299,649,762. This simple fact expresses more vividly the radical contrast between the two parties than volumes of political dissertation.

The Democratic organ wants to know. It beseeches to be informed whether an individual who owns steamboats on these rivers has a right to "prescribe such rates for transportation as he may deem proper?" It is somewhat irksome to be compelled to instruct our neighbor in the A B C of business and common sense, but as we have the job on hand we may as well try to get through it. The person (whoever he may be) to whom our neighbor refers, as well as every other person who owns a steamboat or any sort of boat, has a right to prescribe such rates for transportation on his boat or boats as he may deem proper. And our neighbor of the Herald or "any other man," may start a line of boats on our rivers to-morrow and do the same thing. The owner of steamboats has just as much right to do this as the Herald has to prescribe such rates as it may deem proper for weekly or yearly subscriptions, or for the insertion of advertisements in its own columns.

Professor Marsh, of the Yale College expedition, who passed through Idaho last year, visited the Shoshone Falls on Snake river. He says that the leap of those falls is greater and the gorge deeper and grander than Niagara. The expedition gathered an immense quantity of fossils, including at least fifty new specimens of animals entirely new to science.

THE TERRITORIES.

The assessment of Walla Walla county, Washington Territory, foots up over $4,000,000. It is claimed that an assessment that would show actual values would foot up $6,000,000.

The Walla Walla Land Office is crowded with business. Since March 1st over 17,000 acres of land have been filed on. There is besides much business in connection with the lands of the Northern Pacific Railroad.

Tumwater, at its lowest stage of water, which lasts for about three months, furnishes about 3,300 cubic feet of water per minute, which can be used over four times, first, at the upper fall of twenty feet, two falls of twenty feet, three falls of twelve feet, and the main fall of twenty eight feet to high tide, which will make an average of 500 horse power with an average wheel, or more with a Leffel or Tyler. For three months it will furnish double that quantity, and for the six winter and spring months there is enough water to drive all the wheels that could be usefully employed.

It is said by the Democratic organ that the 9th resolution of the Republican platform, as adopted by the Convention, called the late civil war the "slaveholders' rebellion," but that the word "slaveholders" was afterwards stricken out "at the command of the Convention's master." In its pet notion concerning what it is pleased to call the "Convention's master," our neighbor is a harmless, though somewhat noisy, monomaniac. The 9th resolution, as it came into our hands, did not contain the word "slaveholders." But the word, consistently with truth and history, might just as well have been inserted as not. The only objection is that it doesn't quite cover the case. It was a slaveholders' and Democratic-rebellion, gotten up in the interest of slavery on the State rights-secession-Jeffersonian principles of the Democratic party.

Curiosities of Science.

DISAPPEARANCE OF A SEA.

Bovy St. Vincent states that the time is coming when the Mediterranean will be nothing more than a chain of lakes, and then a mighty river. The Sea of Azof is already being converted into a stream—its shores constantly approaching nearer together.

Tracts of water which extend from the Don to the Straits of the Dardanelles may now be compared to Lakes Superior, Huron and Michigan.

When the great Island of Alantis went down, as Plato relates, covered with cities, it must have changed the sea boundaries exceedingly. Rivers are forever in the process of changing their channels and shallowing by the debris they spread along their bottoms.

DEEP ARTESIAN WELLS.

That of Grenelle, bored for the use of the slaughter houses of Paris, is 1,771 feet deep. Water ascends ninety-one feet above the surface, which shows a prodigious hydrostatic pressure somewhere to drive a column with such force into the air.

At Neusalzwerk, near Minden, there is an artesian well 2,395 feet deep, out of which pours salt water. One was bored some years since for a sugar refinery in St. Louis, Missouri, deeper still, being 2,624 feet in perpendicular depth. Whether still active or not we have not ascertained.

The water in those dry recesses rises in temperature the further down below the level of the sea. In some of the geysers on this continent and in parts of Europe, it is believed it may be heated in the bowels of the earth to six hundred degrees, but in its ascent towards the surface it cools rapidly, rarely being two hundred at its escape.

Where does the water come from in these lower regions? It gathers on mountains and indeed everywhere, and trickles down seams, and dislocations of rock, porous strata, &c., till reaching incandescent matter in a state of fusion, it is converted into steam, forced where there is least resistance, becoming condensed into water again, but pushed on by steam behind.

INSIGNIFICANCE OF THE EARTH.

M. Reclus, a celebrated astronomical writer, says this earth is the lowest in rank among heavenly bodies. Were an astronomer on some other planet exploring the immensity of space, this planet we inhabit, owing to its small size, might readily elude his intelligent view.

The sun is 1,255,000 times larger; and yet that enormous mass is only a speck—a mere point, which seems lost amid eighteen millions of stars which are discovered by instruments in the Milky Way.

What an incomprehensible organ the human brain, to have ascertained such astounding facts, and demonstrated the laws which govern universal nature!

VISION OF MOLLUSKS.

The idea that oysters and clams can see may probably be considered absurd by those who have no very intimate knowledge of their habits.

They have not regularly constructed eyes which give distinct impressions of objects on a retina, but they have floating nerve filaments ranged among the gill finges, that give them a sense of light. They are rudimental optics, but sufficient for all the purposes of these very humble animal forms.

The following bit of romance from real life, appears in the Greeley (Col.) Tribune:

"About thirty years ago a young man was betrothed to a girl in England, but subsequently the engagement was broken. He afterward married another woman, had children, lost his wife and came to Greeley. On Monday morning an old man with a staff was at the depot on the arrival of the train from the East. An old lady, Miss Dean, stepped from the cars and inquired for Thomas McDowd. The old man knew him, and would be happy to carry her baggage to Mr. Childs', where he was stopping. She said that McDowd was expecting her, and she was sure she would know him, for he was an old acquaintance. On arriving at the house, the old man asked if she was certain that she would recognize her friend. 'Of course I [illegible] and, and the lovers were married after thirty years of wailing."

This is the way the Fort Wayne (Indiana) Democrat describes the burning of a grocery:

The loud alarm bells were rung, the steam and hand engines rushed to the scene of the conflagration, but it was too late. The flames enveloped the entire structure, the Doric columns were "tottering to their fall," the iron balconies were melting, the noble buttresses were a heap of ruins, and the French plate glass in the magnificent lancet windows was cracked and twisted by the fervent heat. The blaze roared through the imperial halls, and the mauresque ceilings, the jeweled chandeliers, the purple velvet tapestry, inwrought with pearls, succumbed to the furious element, and at last the Mansard roof fell in, the walls fell out, and nothing was left of the majestic pile but its ruins, reminding the beholder of the ancient palaces that line the banks of the Tigris, the Euphrates or the Nile.

Our life is a sermon. Our birth is the text from which we start. Youth is the introduction to the discourse. During our manhood we lay down a few propositions and prove them. Some of the passages are dull, and some are sprightly. Then come inferences and applications. At seventy years we say, "Fifthly and lastly." The doxology is sung. The benediction is pronounced. The book is closed. It is getting cold. Frost on the window-pane. Audience gone. Shut up the church. Sexton goes home with the key on his shoulder.

Boston's farewell bouquet to Nilsson was a ship four feet long, resting on an ocean of red pinks, with the word "Adieu" on one side and "Cuba" on the other, in white pinks. It sailed down the middle aisle of the theater in the middle of a fine passage in "Martha," and was launched upon the stage after considerable exertion, where it rested quietly until the curtain fell, and was then steered by the prima donna herself to some unknown haven behind the scenes.

The San Francisco Post says: "Shortly after Bret Harte arrived in California he called upon a lady whose acquaintance he had formed on the steamer, and upon being asked the usual question, 'How do you like California?' replied: 'I am disgusted. I never was so disappointed in all my life. Why, would you believe it, I have been compelled to drive a laundry wagon to keep myself from starving, and should not have found your residence had I not called next door to take away dirty clothes, and seen your boy in the yard.' It is certainly a notable trait in the character of Bret Harte that he preferred to stoop to an honorable means to gain his living rather than run in debt or be a tax on his friends. He was then as much a gentleman, carrying dirty clothes, as he is now as the boon companion of the first geniuses of the land. He at that time won a host of friends by his uniformly kind care of his sister, his neat appearance, and refined manners."

Railroads occasionally complain of the dead heads, but no institution suffers so much from it as the press. A sensible writer says:

The press endures the affliction of dead headism from the pulpit, the bar and the stage: from corporations, societies and individuals. The press is expected to yield its interests; it is required to give strength to the weak, eyes to the blind, clothes to the naked, and bread to the hungry: it is asked to cover infirmities, hide weaknesses and wink at quacks, bolster up dull authors and flatter the vain; it is, in short, to be all things to all men, and if it looks for pay or reward it is denounced as mean and sordid. There is no other interest under the whole heavens that is expected to give so much to society, without pay or thanks, as the newspaper press.

A MONKEY POLICEMAN.—The Darwinian theory may not be absurd, after all. A journal of Bombay, India, tells a curious story, which, if true, indicates a high degree of intelligence on the part of a monkey. A rich Mahrassie, traveling with his monkey, of which he was very fond, was robbed and murdered by foot-pads, and his body was buried. After the commission of the crime the monkey, whom the culprits had overlooked, ran to the house of the nearest police officer, and by his actions induced him to follow him. The result was that he led the official to his master's body. Guided by the intelligent animal, the police officer next proceeded to the bazar, where he identified the thieves, three in number, by biting them in succession on the leg. It is added that the murderers have since confessed their crime and have been committed for trial.

The Boston Bulletin has the following valuable mortuary lists: "Methuselah died of liver complaint. Lot's wife of salt-rheum. Absalom fell a wig time to hair-sipelas. Goliah died of the stone. Haman of the dropsy. Nebuchadnezzar of too much vegetable diet, leaving Mrs. N. a grass widow. John Bunyan, troubled with corns, took his pill grimly and progressed. Desdemona also took a pill-ow. Sampson was killed by a pill-ar, too. Montgolfier was (s) pilled out of a balloon. Julius Cæsar was (s) killed in war. John Rogers died of an overdone steak. Romeo died of heart disease. Governor Hoffman dyed his moustache. Artemus Ward was joked to death.

A young lady in a neighboring town has taken up dentistry for a living. All the gentlemen patronize her. When she put her arm around the neck of a patient, and caresses his jaw for the offending member, the sensation is about as nice as they make 'em. One young man has become hopelessly infatuated with her. Consequently he hasn't a tooth in his head. She has pulled every blessed one of them; and made him two new sets and pulled them. She is now at work on his father's saw. He holds the saw.

There is said to be a Digger boy employed on a sheep ranche in Monterey county, Cal., who is a human curiosity. He herds about 800 sheep all by himself, and the overseer says he knows every one by sight, and when he brings them in at night he will get on the corral fence and tell whether any one of them is missing. He is about 14, and has a face as round as the moon, and the brightest black eyes, which fairly sparkle with mischief. He turns more somersaults and hangs head downward from more trees than any man can count readily, and seems hardly to be aware of the existence of the sheep during the day, yet brings them all in at night.

A PUZZLE.—Many have endeavored to solve the following puzzle, but have found it quite difficult. It is easy enough, however, when it is explained. The possessive case does the work: A Princess found a Prophet in the rushes by the water, whom she hoped to call her darling son. If Moses had been the son of Pharaoh's daughter, then he would have been the daughter of Pharaoh's son.

A sensible shoemaker, who made a princely fortune by the sale of an extensively advertised shoestring of his own invention, wrote this stanza, which now adorns his crest:

If you are wise and wish to rise,
Then pitch right in and advertise;
If you are not, then sit down sot,
And let your business go to pot.

A man out West was offered a dish of maccaroni soup, but declined it, declaring that they couldn't "play off any boiled pipe-stems on him."

Still Another Remarkable Cure.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16, 1871.

DR. A. M. LOBYEA & Co.—For two years I was afflicted with Rheumatism, and tried all the known remedies, but experienced nothing more than a temporary relief, the disease always returning. Some months since I concluded to take your Unk Weed Remedy, and the result was a Speedy and Permanent Cure, the Rheumatism being entirely eradicated from the system. The "UNK" is also a Tonic of the very highest order. It increases the appetite, and invigorates the body. REMOVED

The Office of THE DAILY AND WEEKLY OREGONIAN is removed to the S E corner of Stark and Front streets

DESPERATE ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY.—About seven miles from Portland on the Powell's valley road, two Germans have heretofore resided on adjoining ranches, one having a son the other living by himself. The latter hired the two former to split a lot of rails which they did and were paid upwards of ninety dollars therefor. At the time the money was paid the parties they discovered that the man had plenty more $20 pieces and they concluded to go for them. The same evening they approached the cabin of the man whom they found asleep but in their attempt to force an entrance awoke the sleeper. Divining what the object of the intruders was he gathered his clothes and money and as silently as possible slipped out of the house by the back door and took to the brush. The men succeeded in making their entrance at the front door of the cabin but found the inmate had fled. They ransacked the house but found no valuables, and immediately undertook to find the hiding place of the man of money. In the meantime the man could hear the would be robbers in their conversation and heard them distinctly say what their intentions were, they would kill the man take the money and dispose of the body, so-and so. This as may well be imagined created a terror not to be resisted in the mind of the man to be robbed. By carefully moving through the under brush he soon got out of the immediate reach of the robbers, and speedily made his way to East Portland. On Tuesday he engaged an expressman and proceeded to his ranch and removed his household effects to this city. The matter is now in the hands of the proper officers for investigation.

MASONIC HALL.—We are informed that every dollar of the Masonic Hall stock has been paid into the Treasurer, and it is sufficient to complete and furnish the entire building. No one thereon has at any time waited a half hour for his pay when due and at the completion every dollar of cost will be promptly paid over. This is something unusual in the erection of buildings and shows the financial ability and promptness which has characterized the Board of Managers—Capt J C Ainsworth as Pres't. Each of the Blue Lodges will pay $30 a month rent and the lower stores have been engaged at a monthly rental of $100. The second floor or main Hall rents for $50 a night, and has been occupied at this rental several nights already. The stock will pay a dividend of one per cent. from the hour the building is completed.

HALSEY.—Our correspondent at this place writes as follows: There is considerable improvement here. We now have two stores, two saddlery and harness shops, several warehouses and a [illegible] with shop almost ready for occupation and quite a large number of dwellings. The place is free from saloons, which makes Halsey a quiet burg. Preaching every Sunday and a Sunday School in operation—all well patronized. A Good Templar's Lodge has been formed, with a membership of about forty members. The day school is better established and is largely attended. We are getting along lively for a new town [illegible] is fair for this season of the year. More anon.

"WHAT WILL HE DO WITH IT?"—In the trial of the cause of Clarke vs Bill Watkinds for assault at Salem, a day or two ago, Ben Hayden, [illegible] for Watkinds in the examination of Dr [illegible], asked him if he (the Doctor) had made a [illegible] of his (Clarke's) physiology? The [illegible] fraternity of this city are sorely puzzled to know what this means, and not less so the legal profession, who are unable to discover in [illegible] jurisprudence what the recondite Chairman of the State Democratic Committee embodied in a question as senseless as it is new.

DEPARTURE OF THE CALIFORNIA.—The steamship California departed hence last evening at 6 o'clock for Port Townsend, Seattle, Steilacoom, Olympia and Victoria, taking a full cargo and the following passengers: J Wallace and wife, J H [illegible], Charles Nickerson, Lew Parker, Mrs [illegible], Mrs Scott, Harry Armstrong, Nick [illegible], John Barrett, Mrs J Cummings, Miss [illegible], Wm W Hassd, A S Cummings, Miss [illegible], F M Ames and five in the steerage.

POLICE COURT.—Yesterday Albert Allen, who [illegible] $20 as security for his appearance to answer a charge of drunkenness, failing to appear, forfeited that amount.

[illegible] for drinking to excess and being [illegible], was fined $10, and, failing to pay, went to jail.

[illegible] Willis was accused of an assault upon [illegible] Result—Willis was ordered to pay costs and a fine of $10, paid.

[illegible]—Gov Gibbs has demurred to the [illegible] in the action for the recovery of the office of Prosecuting Attorney, as follows: Now comes the defendant in person and demurs to the [illegible] in the above entitled action for the [illegible], 1st, The plaintiff has no legal capacity to sue, 2d, the complaint is multifarious, 3d, the [illegible] does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

[illegible] APPOINTMENT.—Judge D C Lewis has been designated by the authorities of the N P R R Company to make a topographical survey of the lands, rivers and streams, on this division of the road. He has chosen as his first assistant Mr F L Budlang. Judge Lewis left for the Sound country yesterday morning and Mr Budlang will start for the same section this morning.

[illegible].—The peculiarity in the case of [illegible] vs Gibbs, wherein the former brings action to recover possession of the office of Prosecuting Attorney is, that the complaint is signed by Mr [illegible] as Prosecuting Attorney and also by Mr Gibbs as Prosecuting Attorney. A [illegible], indeed, but perhaps unavoidable [illegible] there are some things in the law.

NEW MAP.—A large and complete map has been [illegible] by W F Brown, Real Estate [illegible] and Surveyor, for Messrs Russell, Ferry & Woodward, showing the donation land [illegible] with the acreage and names of original [illegible] of parts of Multnomah, Washington, [illegible], Yamhill and Marion counties, with [illegible] and depots complete.

[illegible] "GUIDE."—This is quite a convenient [illegible] publication by T L Smith. It is [illegible] for hotels offices, etc giving the arrivals and departures of trains and steamboats. It [illegible] on Wednesdays and Saturdays and [illegible] to subscribers at 12½ cents per week. A [illegible] frame is presented to each subscriber.

GONE BELOW.—I S Rosenbaum, an old citizen and merchant of this city goes to San Francisco on the next trip of the Oriflamme to take charge of the extensive wholesale house of A S [illegible] & Co one of the oldest and best [illegible] houses of that city.

STATE vs HURD.—Mr Hurd living east of Portland, has been arrested for obstructing the highway by fencing the same. The action was [illegible] before Justice Dryer and will be heard on Monday next at 10 o'clock A M.

LECTURE BY MRS DUNIWAY.—Mrs Duniway's [illegible] at Gervais will be on Tuesday April 2d instead of Monday as heretofore announced. Mrs [illegible] will also lecture by invitation at South Salem about the same time.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS

The following comprise the deeds filed for record on Tuesday and Wednesday:

Heirs of J H Couch deceased to P F [illegible], quit claim of part of Donation Land Claim—$100.

P J Martin, E T Russell and C P Ferry to J Spray, one half of five acre tract No 3 section 25, township 1 north range 1 east being a portion of the Wm C Bowering Donation Land Claim—$500.

Some mischievously inclined boys or men on Tuesday evening made a raid on Fourth street and removed the front gates of about half a dozen of our citizens, among whom are Messrs B Cardwell, Murray, Vaughn and McGilboury. Some of the gates were carried a hundred yards or more. Great difficulty was experienced in finding some of them.

IMPORTANT DECISIONS

The following decisions by Judge Upton will interest our business men and tax payers, therefore we publish them in full:

Circuit Court for Multnomah County Feb Term 1872

A P Ankeny & Son vs Multnomah Co

[illegible]

This case comes before the Court as a writ of review directed to the County Court sitting as a Court for the transaction of county business. The parties submitted an agreed statement of facts to the following effect:

The petitioners were assessed in 1871 for certain lots of land owned by them valued at $61 000. At the time of the assessment the petitioners were indebted in the sum of $10 000 upon a promissory note secured by a mortgage on a portion of the said land valued at $21,000. The note was made payable to A R Eddy at the Bank of British Columbia in Portland Oregon and the said Eddy was not in Oregon nor a resident of the State.

In the Assessor and the County Court refused to deduct the indebtedness secured by the note and mortgage from the valuation of the petitioners property.

Shattuck & Killin for the petitioner

A C Gibbs District Attorney

BY UPTON, J

The statute Gen L p 628 Sec 1 amended in 1865, provides that the Assessor shall "deduct the amount of indebtedness within this State of any person assessed."

The case presents the question whether the amount specified in a note, which is payable at a particular place in this State should be deducted notwithstanding the owner of the note may be absent from and a non resident of the State.

In Johnson vs Oregon City (2 Oregon, 327) it was held in this Court, and on appeal that the place where a promissory note is taxable depends on the residence or location of the owner of the note and not upon the place where the paper which is the evidence of the indebtedness may be temporarily deposited.

The District Attorney claims that upon the principles there laid down the indebtedness under consideration follows the person of Mr Eddy the owner of the note.

The counsel for the petitioner claim that, by stipulating in the note for a particular place of payment the parties have limited the character of the contract in this particular and that this note does not evidence an indebtedness which the owner of the demand can carry out of the State at his will.

It is certain that the words fixing a place of payment do affect the nature of the contract in some respects. They limit the rights and liabilities of the parties in several particulars, and the place of payment is a material part of the contract. Bowen vs Newell, 13 N Y 290, Troy City Bank vs. Lauman 19 N Y 477, Lee vs Selleck 33 N Y, 615.

If the case turned upon the same point that was before the Court in Johnson vs Oregon City the decision there made would settle the question in favor of the county; but the statute should not receive the same construction it would have borne, if the Legislature, in defining the exemption had used the words, "the amount of indebtedness that is taxable in this State." It is not in the power of the holder of the note to change the place of payment, the petitioner has by his contract reserved the right to transact the business in this State and to prevent a cause of action from arising upon this note in any other State. If the terms of the contract are carried out, the money that is payable will be in this State after it has left the hands of the maker of the note, and will be subject to the payment of any taxes the State may impose upon it.

I think by the terms of the statute the amount of the note should be deducted from the petitioner's assessment and a judgment will be entered to that effect.

Circuit Court for Multnomah county Feb ruary Term, 1872

A P Ankeny vs Multnomah county

An ordinary promissory note, the owner of which is absent from this State, is not an "indebtedness within this State" which can be deducted from the debtor's assessment.

BY UPTON, J

This case presents facts similar to those set forth in the case of A P Ankeny & Son vs Multnomah county, except that the note in this case was given by the petitioner to Jemima Wheeler for $15 000 and it does not appear that any particular place of payment is designated in the note. The agreed case contains the statement that the note "was or is payable in Portland" and shows that the money was used in making improvements on the property which is assessed to the petitioner.

The fact that the money went into improvements and was thus taxed, is not a matter which the statute authorizes the Court to consider and the statement in the alternative, that the note was or is payable in Portland does not justify the conclusion that payment could not be enforced at any other place but it must be treated as an ordinary promissory note and according to the decision in Johnson vs Oregon City its situs is with its owner. When Mrs Wheeler left the State she carried with her the property in the note and the right to bring an action upon it in any other country in which the maker or his property may be found. As the property in the note was no longer in this State after she departed and the petitioner retained no right to satisfy it in this State, I think it cannot be treated as a deduction authorized by the statute, and that the proceeding of the County Court should be affirmed.

A REMARKABLE CURE OF PALSY

[illegible]

To the Afflicted: I wish to state that I lost the use of my left arm from my shoulder to the end of my fingers by a stroke of palsy. I tried many [illegible] and none did me any good. I was informed that there was a cure for me. My friends at the Dalles advised me to visit Portland and place myself under the care of Dr Abern. I arrived in Portland last evening by the Dalles boat and immediately called at Dr Abern's office and made my case known. The Doctor commenced treatment at once and in ten minutes to my great surprise and joy I could move my arm. [illegible] I now have the use of my arm to the last finger, and can raise my arm up [illegible] with as much ease as I can raise my right arm. [illegible] remarkable cure [illegible] in my estimation speaks for itself. Dr Abern [illegible] stopping at the American Exchange Hotel [illegible] I am a stock raiser and reside at Willow creek Wasco county Oregon eighty miles south of the Dalles.

What Spring Brings With It.

Regarded from a medical stand point, Spring is not the delectable season described by verbal poets. On the contrary its yield of intermittent fevers, bilious attacks, rheumatic pains, disorders of the stomach, nervous complaints and pulmonary disease is almost as large as its crop of violets, snow drops and cherry blossoms. The invisible seeds of innumerable maladies rise with the morning mists and are sent broadcast by the vapors of night. Who can resist their morbific influence? Certainly not the weak by nature or those whose nervous energies have been overtasked by mental or physical labor unless they tone and invigorate their systems, and thus enable them to cope with the unhealthy influences by which they are surrounded.

The only medicinal agent by which this object can be rapidly and safely accomplished is that great vegetable renovant and invigorant Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The operation of this celebrated specific is four fold. It strengthens the digestive organs, regulates the secretions, improves the condition of the blood, superinduces a regular habit of body and thereby imparts such vigor and elasticity to the whole physical structure as to render it capable of resisting the action of the poisonous miasma with which in the spring, atmosphere is always to some extent impregnated. Here then is a ready and certain means of escaping the disorders prevalent at this season or (if they have already fastened upon the system) of conquering them speedily and thoroughly. The flavor of a medicine is not of much consequence, provided it does its work properly, but if Hostetter's Bitters it may be fairly said that they effect a cure without outraging the patient's sense of taste.

A Skeleton in Six Weeks.

A FARMER DELIBERATELY STARVING HIMSELF TO DEATH.

[Correspondence of the New York Sun.]

BINGHAMTON, February 28.—Bradley Grant, aged forty-two years, a wealthy farmer, who lived three miles west of this city, died yesterday. He had deliberately starved himself to death, and no motive can be assigned for the suicidal act. The time required was just six weeks to a day. During all this interval he had not taken three ounces of any kind of food.

On January 10, the first day of his long death-fast, he eat part of an egg beaten up with a little milk. Of this he only sipped two tablespoonfuls. His next meal was taken fifteen days afterward, and consisted of but half a cup of tea and a piece of toast about the size of a man's three fingers. Then he went without food for twenty days. His last meal consisted of one ounce of toast, which he was induced to swallow on the 15th instant.

A few days before he died two teaspoonsful of brandy and water were forced down his throat. This sums up all the food that passed into his stomach during the six weeks. His wife and family have watched him night and day to see if he did not visit the pantry in their absence and eat something. But he never went, and the food was never disturbed.

It is believed that Mr. Grant was suffering from mental derangement superinduced by overwork. He was never known to have had any family difficulty. The farm buildings were all in excellent condition, and the farm well stocked. He leaves a wife and a three months old child. His body was reduced to a perfect skeleton.

There has been much speculation on the question whether a man's soul ever actually leaves his body during sleep or at any other time before death, but it is very rare that we get any palpable evidence on the mysterious enigma. There is a story told in the Louisville Courier-Journal, however, of a merchant of that city who, while traveling on a sleeping car in Mississippi, had a vivid experience as of visiting his home and seeing his wife and children asleep, and noticing that the eight-day family clock had run down, he wound it up and set it going. He then returned to his berth, which was rattling along at the rate of forty miles an hour in the sleeping car, saw his own body distinctly, and resumed his place within its well-fitting encasement. On writing to his wife about it he learned that the clock had been mysteriously wound up on the night of his spiritual peregrination.

A tobacco firm in Hartford is going to try a new plan for curing the 1871 crop. Originally, in this climate, it would not be fit for use till after the hot months, say in September. They have conceived the idea of shipping a cargo to a warm climate, where it will get the same degree of heat in December, January and February that it could here in June, July and August, and accordingly they made early purchases of some of the finest crops of 1871 tobacco, and shipped it to a port near Havana. The value of the tobacco thus shipped is about $100,000, and those in charge report it as curing finely.

Col. Henry Wilson, who died in New Orleans, February 21st, was, possibly, the oldest of the retired officers of the army. His first service was with General Jackson in Florida. In the Mexican war he was appointed by Gen. Scott military Governor of Vera Cruz. On the breaking out of the rebellion he resigned the colonelcy of the seventh infantry. All his sons were in the rebel army.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

WEDNESDAY EVENING, March 27, 1872.

Gold in New York, 110.

Portland Legal Tender quotations, [illegible] buying and 91½c selling.

The steamship California, for Sound ports and Victoria, cleared to-day. She was unable to take all the freight offering.

The steamship [illegible] Telfair will take on freight for Port Townsend.

The bark Almatia, for San Francisco, left this morning.

In another column is published the decision of Judge Upton in the case of the State [illegible] A. P. Ankeny, which is of general interest.

There is on exhibition at the bank of Messrs. Ladd & Tilton a Copper pig smelted by the Oregon Iron Works from ore extracted from a Copper mine near Baker City.

We have on one or two occasions called attention to the richness of the Galena mines situated about 30 miles from here. The rapid advance in Lead with a large increase in its consumption, owing to its general use in many articles manufactured, causes the present to be a fitting time for some of our leading citizens to incorporate a company and work one of the mines. Our true policy is to open up all the many resources of the State and nothing offers, so far as we are advised, better opportunities for investment than the Galena or Lead mines, and the Iron mines. These kind of mines are not like Gold mines—these are permanent and all interested can rely upon a certain and sure annual or monthly income. Of the Iron mines we have in former issues spoken fully, and it is not to our purpose in this issue to speak. The consumption of Lead in this coast is increasing and calls for increasing importations with high prices ruling. A company formed for working the Galena mines could find ready sale for all Lead manufactures at good rates in the East. The principal mines East—in Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois—produced as follows.

	Pigs.	Tons.
From 1821 to 1831	664,118	24,244
1831 to 1841	1,[illegible]2,950	55,718
1841 to 1851	6,170,857	215,979
1851 to 1861	4,603,653	161,131
1861 to 1871	2,410,285	84,700

The foreign imports into New York city alone for the period of ten years from, 1861 to 1871, was 4,403,241 pigs against 3,287,514 pigs from 1850 to 1861. It should be remarked that a Pig of foreign Lead is fully equal to two of American. During 1871 the aggregate shipment of Pig Lead from San Francisco amounted to 4,800 tons against 1,26[illegible] tons for 1870. The average price obtained for Lead in Pig was 5¾@6c ℔ lb.

The reviving interest shown by our leading merchants and others in procuring direct shipments from the East and also from Europe is of the greatest advantage to us in retaining our commercial supremacy in the Northwest, and also in making us a formidable rival to San Francisco for the trade of China and Japan with the East upon completion of the North Pacific Railroad. A line of vessels will soon be established between this port and Liverpool. The time of dispatching vessels from Liverpool will be shortened as fast as trade will admit. From the present lookout we expect to hear of one vessel being dispatched every month from Liverpool, ladened with assorted merchandise for this port, and this number increased. We base this opinion upon statistics recently procured by us for a Liverpool house, who avow their intention of putting on a line of vessels, and for that purpose wished to know the kinds of heavy foreign goods imported and the amount annually consumed of each. Everything tends to show that a line of vessels will soon be put on from New York also, as two of our leading merchants have written East for the purpose of ascertaining its practicability. The recent advance in freight from San Francisco up hastened these movements, and will result in direct shipments from the East, for we can offer better inducements to vessels seeking charters than does San Francisco. As indicating direct shipments from Germany, we are informed that Messrs. A. Meiler & Co., importers, of this city, have been appointed agents for the old and favorably known steamship line in Europe and the East—the Hamburgh. This line has two vessels which arrive at and depart from New York every week, and one to and from Aspinwall once a month to Hamburgh. The object of this agency is to facilitate shipments from Germany. Any person purchasing in Germany can have their goods shipped here via Aspinwall and San Francisco with quick dispatch. This we are informed is but the beginning of direct shipments, by sail, from Germany, in having established a regular line of vessels between Hamburgh and this city.

Produce Market.

WHEAT—Market quiet. No private dispatches have been received giving Liverpool quotations, so shippers are not offering an advance on former bids. The steamship California took out about 1,200 centals.

FLOUR—The shipments by the California are heavy, footing up larger than was expected. Several lots could not be taken on, but will go forward by the Telfair. The amount taken out by the California was about 3,000 bbls, mostly standard brands. Prices unchanged.

POTATOES—We note sales in lots of 500 sks Sound, ex California, at 1¼c ℔ lb. It is thought that another shipment cannot be placed at the same figure.

FEED—Shipments to Sound ports and Victoria were liberal to-day by outgoing steamship California. Prices unchanged.

WOOL—The New York Shipping List of March 9th says "There is little change to note in the general features of the market. There is a good demand for the various descriptions of Domestic, but light stocks and the high rates now current, have in a measure checked business. Domestic fleece is in small supply, and a further advance has been established, closing strong at 85@90c, with very little obtainable at those figures. There is no quotable change to note in other kinds, but prices generally are in sellers' favor.

"Oregon sold at 62c per pound.

"Incited by the extraordinary home demand for Woolens during the past year, the sheep farmers of the country entered into Wool growing to an extent altogether without precedent, as will be seen by the subjoined statement of the annual Wool clip of the country:

1850	pounds, 52,515,359	1868	pounds 177,000,000
1860	60,511,343	1869	162,250,000
1865	115,000,000	1870	162,000,000
1867	160,000,000	1871	170,000,000

By the close of the war the production had about doubled; and at that point it went on increasing until the culmination was reached in the enormous clip of 1868. In the same time, the production of all other Wool countries had increased in much the same way.

"As a consequence of this increased production everywhere, Wool-growing became unprofitable. Prices fell steadily, and millions of sheep were slaughtered in Australia and La Plata for the Wool in their pelts. And to other causes, the Franco-German war of 1870-71, had the effect to materially decrease the supply of Wool. The present Wool famine will be relieved by the imports from Australia and by the new clip, of which that of California will begin to reach the market in April, and that of the States East of the Mississippi in June. The high prices will undoubtedly prove a great stimulus to the Domestic Wool-growers, and we shall probably again see a rapid increase of production."

General Merchandise.

FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.—The different invoices for Janion & Rhodes, direct from Manchester, England, ex Coldstream, are exposed for sale at their store. If any doubt the advantage of direct shipments, they will have same removed by the low prices at which these importations are offered.

WHISKY—The reported large purchase ($3,000,000 worth) in Kentucky by a dealer, appears by our mail advices from Louisville not to have been the case. This will account for no advance in this and the San Francisco market.

PAPER—From the New York Commercial Letter of the San Francisco Alta we clip the following: "Printing papers are steady, while prices are nominal, manufacturers refusing to make contracts. Complaints about the great scarcity of water and the probability that many mills will be obliged to suspend if we are not favored with rain in the spring, continue to reach us. Rain at this period would be of little use, as in the absence of snow the ground is frozen to a considerable depth, and rain would not penetrate; therefore, unless we have a wet spring, prices for paper will rule high next season. Chemicals which enter into the manufacture of paper have also advanced largely, and altogether the prospect for lower prices is very slight.
